

The Homestay Host Experience

Hosting an international student can be a very exciting and rewarding experience for you and for the student. This packet of information is developed for host families to consider expectations of the college, the student, and to maximize the experience. Host family applicant and co-applicant must be 21 years old and above at the time of application. The applicant(s) must be at least 25 years old or older to host the student for Traditional Homestay, and at least 21 years old or older for Room and Kitchen access only.

Homestay Host Requirements

To become involved in the homestay program at Olympic College, we require that hosts agree to the following:

- Commitment. You must commit to host a student for a minimum of one quarter/session. The first ten days after placement is an adjustment period for the host and the student. After the ten days, both parties need to commit to a minimum of one quarter (12 weeks) or one summer session (6 or 8 weeks). After the initial commitment period, both parties renew the agreement quarterly.
- Move out notice: Both the host and student are required to give a 30-day notice prior to the last day of quarter in the case if one decides to not renew the agreement for the following quarter. The student must move out and vacate the homestay on or after the quarter end date and before new student arrival day for the following quarter.
- Home environment. Provide a clean, safe, and caring home environment with a private bedroom with bed and bedding, linens and towels, a desk and chair, study lamp, adequate storage, light and heat, a fire exit, nearby smoke alarm, and a fire extinguisher. This room must be available to the student during their entire stay and cannot be made available to out-of-town visitors or guests. Hosts are expected to provide household staples such as laundry detergent and toilet paper, but not personal toiletries.
- Welcome and orientation. Welcome the student to your home and spend time to orient the student to all aspects of living there. Because this is a new experience for most students, allow extra time for your family to get to know the newly arrived student. After the initial welcome, give them a house key, explain your house rules and expectations and teach them how to use household equipment and perform simple household chores, such as helping with the dishes, vacuuming, washing their clothes, cleaning their room or cleaning up after themselves. Provide instructions on procedures in the case of injury, fire, earthquake or other emergencies.
- Daily life. Include the homestay student in your daily life and give the student the choice of coming with you when you (a) run errands, (b) shop, (c) attend sporting events or movies, or (d) participate in family holidays.
- English. One of the reasons to select the homestay option is to increase the opportunity to improve English language skills. If multiple languages are spoken in the home, remember to speak English so the student will not feel “left out” of conversation.
- Meals and food.
For “Traditional Homestay” option students, please provide a balanced variety of nutritional food for breakfast, lunch and dinner, seven days a week. The host is expected to prepare five evening meals per week, served at a time convenient for you and the student. Food should be available for the student to prepare the remainder of their meals. Please show the homestay student how to use your appliances in your kitchen and any gadgets you normally use to cook with before you allow the student to use your kitchen to prepare other meals. You should ask the student to help you prepare the grocery list.

For “Room and Kitchen Access” option students, provide access to the kitchen for food preparation, as well as refrigerator and cabinet storage space for student-purchased food. Please show the homestay student how to use your appliances in your kitchen and any gadgets you normally use to cook with before you allow the student to use your kitchen.

- Transportation. Teach your student to ride the bus if applicable and help them to become familiar with the local area and commercial establishments for shopping, groceries, and personal services.
- Telephone and Internet access. You may need to show the student how to make long distance phone calls with their cell phone. Most students have or will have their own cell phones. Internet Wi-Fi set-up is required since the Internet is a part of our lives now and students need to use it at home for their studying, researching, and communicating with their families back home. Although students can access the Internet and computer services at the College, they usually prefer the homestay family with Wi-Fi access. Hosts may be asked to upgrade their Internet speed or router if there’s any ongoing Internet connection problem.
- Medical. All homestay students are required to have medical insurance, and student questions regarding coverage should be referred to the Office of International Education & Study Abroad at OC. For emergencies, dial 911 or take them to a local emergency room.
- Personal beliefs. The college respects all religious and philosophical beliefs. While perfectly acceptable to practice your own philosophy or religion (for example, prayers at the dinner table), please do not proselytize. The student’s belief systems should be respected. You may invite your homestay guest to join the family in religious activities, but you should not expect them to participate.
- Never ask a homestay student to baby-sit.
- Illegal substances. Hosts must agree not to have or use any illegal substance prohibited under federal law in the home while a student lives there. If alcohol is consumed in your home, it is expected that the use is moderate and that you will not offer alcohol to the student.
- Changes in the homestay.
Homestay hosts agree to notify the Office of International Education & Study Abroad of any changes in the homestay situation, including: persistent problems with a student; plans to be out-of-town for an extended period of time; changes such as family members moving in or out; pets; divorce; career changes; when the student gives notice and plans to move out; updates on address, phone and/or email, etc.

Rights of the College

The college reserves the right to remove a student from a host home at its discretion and may request a prorated refund of the homestay stipend. If a difference arises between the host and student, the college expects both to settle differences to the best of their abilities. A second recourse would be to contact the Office of International Education & Study Abroad to intervene and act as a mediator, although it is understood that the college is under no obligation or liability to settle disputes.

Compensation for Homestay Hosts

The monthly fee covers room, food (if included), utilities, Wi-Fi-Internet access, cost of normal family activities and your time. The monthly fee is due to the host each month on the 1st day of each month. Homestay fee for the 1st month and the last month will be prorated.

If the notice was not given by the student in a timely manner, the student will still owe the homestay fee to cover until the 30th day from the date of notice. The deposit may be used to cover the fee if there are no unpaid bills or damages.

Hosts should not depend on homestay stipends to meet their ongoing financial obligations.

Vacation Policy

A student who wishes to go out of town while living in homestay must prearrange the absence with the host family and plans must be agreeable to both parties. If the student plans to be away for 15 or more nights, the monthly stipend is reduced 50%, but only for the nights that the student is away. For absences of less than 15 nights, there is no reduction in the monthly payment.

If the student who is eligible and wishes to take a vacation quarter/session and want to reserve the room, please contact the homestay coordinator for approval.
